Typesetters notes

Nube: They're the youchou said to have the body of a bird with the face like a human, sharp fangs and tail of a snake. "Itsu Made" They stay on top of roofs shouting out "How long? How long?", many of them appeared in the warring period and they've been written about in "Taiheikei" and "Konjaku Gazu Zoku Hyakki"

They're using words that have some amazing meaning...
However what is the meaning of the "how long"?
If it's come to this, then I'll settle this myself!
Damn this I can't rely on you teacher
hey
Eh
How long... what is it they're asking of me?
キーン
コーン
カーン
コーン
Is there something I have to do again?
what are they saying that has to be done again by I, a flawless, perfect, genius handsome male
I don't know
...

げえっ！

How long

TSnote sign says kaneda

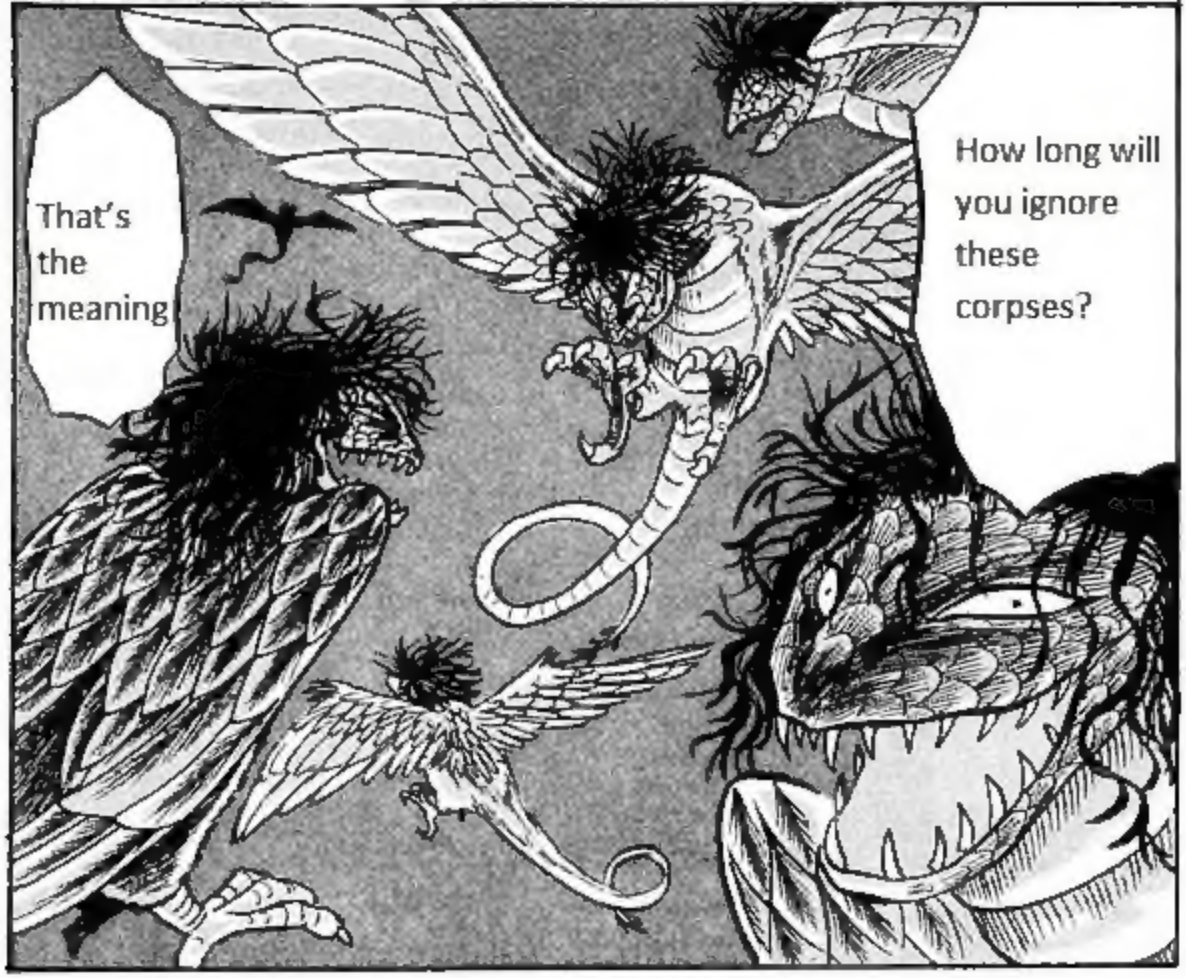
ゴゴゴ!
Dummy!! What were you thinking of these animals

What, isn't this a mountan of the corpses of bugs and fish!!
What; it's because I throw them out the window when they die

The "How Long" being said by the Itsu Made is

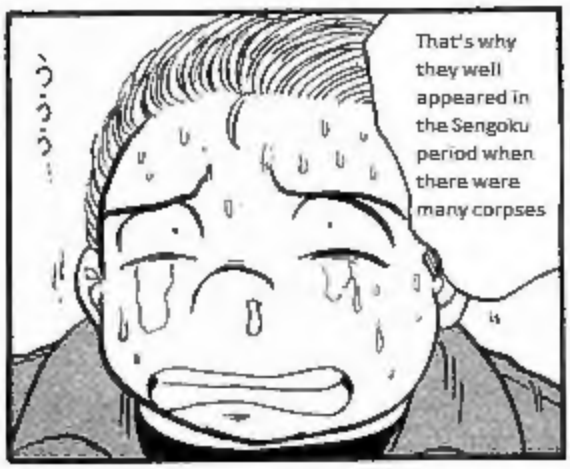


That's the meaning
How long will you ignore these corpses?

ホゥ
ホゥ

small souls who were abandoned here, rest in peace
Namu Daiji Daihi Kyuugu Kyuunan Koudai Reikan

How Long
How Long
How Long



That's why they well appeared in the Sengoku period when there were many corpses

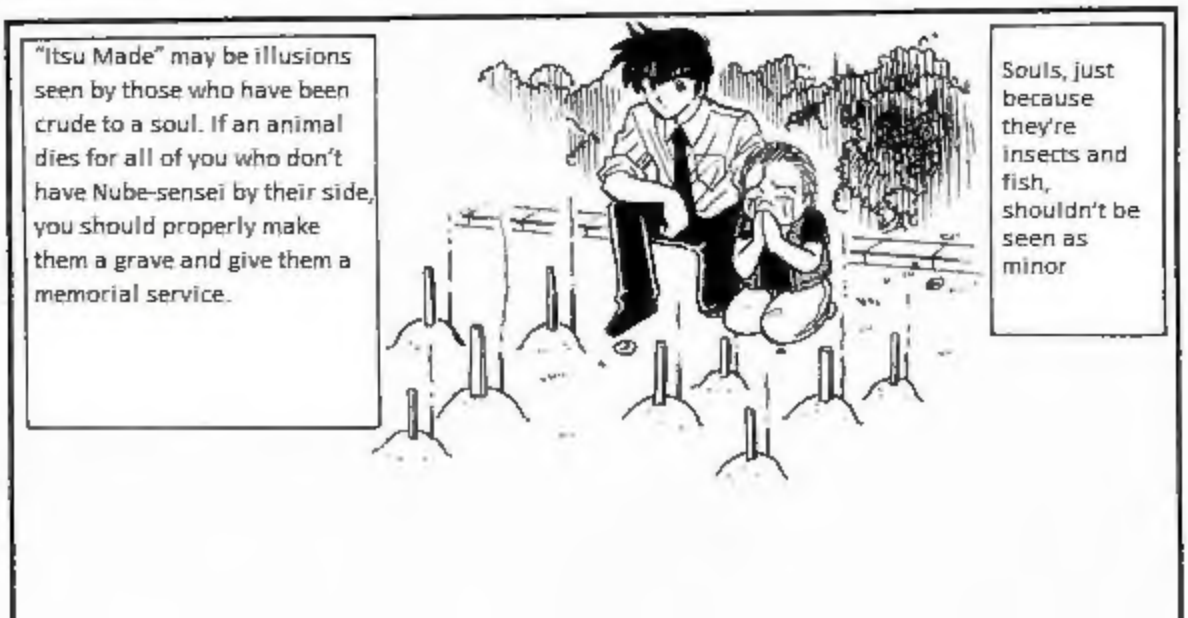
They're birds summoned by the souls of remains who haven't had a memorial service
They have an alias: Shichou



"Itsu Made" may be illusions seen by those who have been crude to a soul. If an animal dies for all of you who don't have Nube-sensei by their side, you should properly make them a grave and give them a memorial service.
Souls, just because they're insects and fish, shouldn't be seen as minor
